Honduras launches a 1.5 GW renewable energy tender with integrated storage, drawing strong interest from Chinese companies. Learn how this ambitious plan aims to reshape the nation's power sector.

In an effort to secure its long-term energy future, the government has unveiled plans for a $1.5 billion public tender that will introduce 1.5 GW of new generation capacity, with a heavy emphasis on renewable energy integrated with storage systems. At the heart of this initiative is a reverse.

Dozens of Chinese power companies have seen a presentation of Honduras' rescue plan for its electricity industry as the government preps a 1.5 GW tender. Honduras' state-owned National Electric Energy Company (ENEE) has presented the terms of a planned tender for 1.5 GW of generation capacity to.

Honduras has emerged as the focal point for what is being touted as the "most ambitious storage project in Central America." With six bids submitted from a mix of local and international firms, the stakes are high as the country seeks to bolster its renewable energy capacity and enhance grid.

Last week (7 November) saw bids opened for a 75MW/300MWh BESS tender launched by the government of Honduras, in Central America. The public event marked the opening of bids for the energy storage procurement, called LPI-001-ENEE-UEPER-2024, for the 'Supply, installation, testing and commissioning.

In a significant advancement for renewable energy infrastructure within Central America, six proposals have been submitted for what is being recognized as the region's most ambitious energy storage initiative, located in Honduras. This project aims to enhance the nation's renewable energy capacity.

According to the report by the media outlet El Mundo, the Honduran Minister of Energy, Erick Tejada, mentioned that the contract for the construction of a 75 MWh battery energy storage system, valued at $50.2 million, was awarded to the Chinese-Honduran consortium Windey-Equinsa. According to the.
