Until recently, the majority of solar panels installed in the U.S. came from overseas—predominantly from China—due to lower manufacturing costs. But today, that trend is shifting rapidly. Driven by evolving government policy, financial incentives, and growing consumer demand, American solar.

The Inflation Reduction Act (IRA) of 2022 played a key role in this transformation, offering tax credits and financial incentives to companies that manufacture solar components in the U.S. Additionally, tariffs on foreign-made solar products helped level the playing field, making American-made.

The impact has been mixed, driving growth in U.S. solar panel manufacturing while also raising material costs for domestic producers. For solar contractors working in this volatile environment, partnering with U.S. solar panel manufacturers is helpful. Using solar panels made in the USA may provide.

The solar power industry in the United States has undergone a transformative evolution over the past decade. With the global push towards sustainability and cleaner energy sources, the U.S. has emerged as a leading hub for solar technology innovation and manufacturing. This growth has been fueled.
