European Commission approves new 700 million aid scheme to boost energy storage in Spain [News] The Ministry of Ecological Transition and Demographic Challenge will promote the large-scale deployment of this technology by co-financing investments of up to 85%. The European Commission has approved a.

Spain has launched an ambitious €700 million (around $796 million) program to increase its energy storage capacity. This plan will add 2.5 to 3.5 gigawatts (GW) of storage. It includes pumped hydro, thermal energy storage, and battery systems. The goal is to improve how Spain uses renewable energy.

The European Commission has approved a €699 million Spanish scheme to support investments in energy storage facilities to foster the transition towards a net-zero economy. The scheme contributes to the achievement of the priorities of the European Commission for 2024-2029, based on the Political.

Spain has taken a decisive step in strengthening its energy infrastructure with the launch of a €700 million support scheme aimed at expanding large-scale energy storage across the country. This initiative, coordinated by the Ministry for the Ecological Transition and the Demographic Challenge.

Spain's €700 million EU-approved energy storage subsidy scheme isn't just a policy win—it's a gold rush for developers, offering up to 85% project cost coverage and a clear path to tap the country's 2.5-3.5GW 2030 capacity target. At the heart of this opportunity lies the Spain Subsidy-Eligible.

On March 17th, 2025, the European Commission approved a €700 million ($763 million) solar subsidy program to accelerate large-scale battery storage deployment nationwide. This strategic move positions Spain as Europe's next hot-spot for solar energy storage innovation and a golden opportunity for.
