

The Netherlands Rotterdam Building Renovation solar Curtain Wall Company

Overview

Does Rotterdam have a sustainable business model?

Rotterdam is exploring new business models to fund ecological restoration, demonstrating the financial viability of sustainability. The Rebel team have worked with both the public and private sector including the likes of CBRE and the Ministry of Agriculture, Nature and Food Quality in the Netherlands as well as various municipalities.

Why is green infrastructure important in the Netherlands?

The Dutch are masters of water management, and green infrastructure is a vital tool. When a heavy rainstorm hits a conventional city, water rushes off impermeable surfaces, overwhelming drainage systems and often leading to flooding. Green roofs, particularly intensive ones, act like giant sponges.

What is floating office Rotterdam?

The Floating Office Rotterdam (FOR), designed by Powerhouse Company, is home to the Global Centre on Adaptation. This off-grid, carbon-neutral building showcases cutting-edge sustainable design, with its solar energy source and water-based heat-exchange system.

Is Rotterdam a leader in Climate adaptive urbanism?

Fast forward to 2024, through a coalition of policymakers, city planners, architects, designers, businesses and communities, Rotterdam is making a name for itself on the global stage as a leader in climate adaptive urbanism.
